I'm Cheesemaker Charlie.
I like to make cheese.
I'm fond of ricottas,
and cheddars, and bries.

And when I make Swiss cheese,
perfection's my goal.
So, that's why I only
use milk labeled "hole."

Each cheese I prepare
needs its own kind of milk,
to make sure it's creamy
and smoother than silk.

— Kenn Nesbitt

For string cheese, to help it
stay slender and slim,
I only use milk that's been labeled as "skim."

I try to ensure that
my jack cheese is jacked.
I help it stay shredded
with "low fat," in fact.
