

Dear Squishy, I Love You

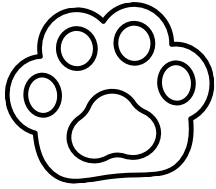

Read this poem and answer the questions on the back

Dear Squishy, I love you.
(I yanked on your nose.)
I treasure our friendship.
(I stomped on your toes.)
You're thoughtful and caring.
(I stretched out your skin.)
You're endlessly cheerful.
(I twisted your chin.)
You never get grumpy.
(I pushed in your eyes.)
You never hold grudges.
(I mangled your thighs.)
You make me so happy.
(I pounded your ear.)
You're one in a million.
(I sat on your rear.)
I'm lucky to have you.
(I scrunched up your cheek.)
I'll love you forever.
(Except if you leak.)

Dear Squishy, I Love You

What are two things the speaker does to their squishy?

How does the speaker say the squishy acts,
even when it is treated roughly?

What does the speaker mean when they say their squishy is "one in a million"?

Do you think the speaker really loves their squishy?
Why or why not?

What might make the speaker stop loving their squishy,
even though they say they will love it forever?
